Committees are an integral component of a professional-scientific society, such as ASPRS, and serve as important sources of advice for the officers and directors. They provide an open forum for gathering and disseminating information while providing leadership, guidance and assistance to various activities within the Society resulting in effective decision-making and a better understanding of profession-related issues.

Please review the following list and check off the committee[s] you would like to serve on. Email the form directly to: asprs@asprs.org.
