

Your Story is Part of Our History!

ASPRS has established a Films Committee with the goal of producing a series of short videos describing the history and work of the Society and its members. To date, seven documentary vignettes have been produced. See <http://www.asprs.org/films/index.html>.

Supporting this effort is the ASPRS Archive, which serves as a central repository of historical assets relevant to geospatial practitioners, students, and historians interested in finding resources documenting ASPRS history and learning about the professions of photogrammetry and remote sensing.

Needed:

- Documents
- Files or video
- Photographs
- Interviews
- Transcripts
- Weblinks

The Archive accepts submissions from ASPRS members and members of the public with an interest in supporting ASPRS.

Do you have electronic assets relating to the practice of remote sensing, imagery and geospatial topics? Specifically, our Archive Sub-committee is interested in video, images, audio, documents, and other assets. The videos are also useful in recruiting new members to the Society.

Our projects support educational and service organizations, and will strengthen ASPRS and the fields of photogrammetry and remote sensing.

Contributions of stories, material and dollars are a powerful way for you to preserve your important story within the larger ASPRS core history.

Help us preserve our rich geospatial heritage!

JOIN OUR TEAM!

We are seeking:

- Anyone with an interest;
- Writers;
- Database programmers;
- Database managers;
- Reviewers of archival materials;
- Jacks of all trades!

ASPRS Films Committee

<http://www.asprs.org/films/index.html>

contact us at Films@asprs.org